

Coaching Programmes for Senior Executives

Gravitas and Impact for Managers

When an executive reaches a certain level their success becomes much more about who they than what they do. This is the level where the executive needs to behave and present in the way that they expect the rest of their workforce to do. Become the cultural behavioural and ultimate leadership ambassador for your organisation.

On our way to the top we learn many key skills that make us better at what we do. We also learn about good leadership behaviours. However it is unusual for executives to understand their impact on others and how they can use their gravitas and impact to influence the people and the environment around them.

The top five concerns/worries of executives are -

- Presentation skills
- Powerful, but not aggressive, body language
- Control of voice
- Language of influence
- Tonality
- Presence
- Influencing skills

This one to one executive coaching programmes tackles how the executive uses all of the above to make them a more affective and better leader of people. This will create a step change in their understanding of how they can change their behaviour to get the most out of the people around them.

This programme will be 6 sessions of 2 hours in length over six months. Programmes should all be face to face, and will involve a number exercises and challenges between sessions to push the executive to a new level of impact and gravitas.

Who's it for?

This programme is designed for executives at the senior level, looking for a credible challenging programme that is going to take their leadership to another level and make them a leader that people want to follow.

How does it work?

