

Coaching Programmes for Junior Managers

Coaching for Improved Presentation Skills

Presentation skills are something that everyone in business possess. We are rarely born with the skills to present to large groups, or in tense situations, it is something we learn over time.

By providing targeted high quality one to one presentation skills to your junior managers you are setting them up for a lifetime of getting the message across, and engaging employees. By making your junior managers presentations more impactful you can accelerate the leadership skills of your junior managers, therefore taking pressure off higher managers.

This programme should not be considered just for individuals who are doing large presentations it also operates for individuals who are looking to improve their impact in a one to one conversation in the office or with a client.

The programme may also be tailored around specific presentations, interviews or events, where required. With the coach actually attending the presentation to support to the very end. Additionally, the programme may also help the learner with their presentation design and build where required. Offering the full package for great presentations.

Based on our premise that every conversation is a presentation, this coaching programme can improve conversations at all levels within the organisation.

The ultimate in-depth one to one coaching programme designed to radically improve presentation skills, leaving a lifetime of more impactful conversations in your junior management population.

Who's it for?

This programme is designed for any junior manager who is looking to have more impactful effective conversations leading to more effective management and influencing styles such as

- Junior managers who conduct sales meetings or pitches for your organisation
- Individuals leading teams who struggle to manage upwards
- Managers with potential internal interviews coming up.
- Managers in the talent pool looking to develop key presentation skills
- Managers looking to improve their impact whilst leading team meetings
- Any junior managers struggling to communicate in, and around, their team.
- Anyone who suffers from anxiety at the thought making a presentation.

How does it work?

